Stephan Vanfleteren, my favorite photographer, Concentrates on stills of every day life. His radical black-and-white documentary work covers the disappearance of small, anarchic worlds and the phenomena of everyday life in his homeland Belgium as well as events from world's conflict zones to every day life around the world. He Also interested in portraying artists, actors, writers, directors, musicians and all other people express themselves That to Their Profession. I am so into his work because i have the impression Often That his snapshots explain, without words, More Than a whole book can cover.
